

JAP WARSHIPS AVOID SOLOMONS BATTLE

Meandering Along the Main Stem By WASH FAYETTE

I notice two or three patches of Canadian thistles have appeared within the city, and I understand this noxious weed is spreading in various parts of the county where the land-owners apparently do not realize that the weed is just about as great a menace as Johnson Grass.

One of these patches of Canadian thistles, if I made no mistake in identifying it at 100 feet as I drove by, is along the B. & O. railroad a short distance west of Delaware Street and another is a few squares away on a vacant lot.

I believe there is a state law requiring that Canadian thistles be eradicated as soon as they are discovered, and by reason of their dense root mass and spread from running roots as well as by seed which are carried long distances the thistles spread rapidly and are difficult to control.

Once started it is almost impossible to kill them through the usual measures, and certain acids are frequently used to destroy the thistles.

As their name indicates, Canadian thistles come from Canada, and during trips through Canada I have seen great areas covered with them and they kill out all other growth and literally take the ground.

Apparently Canadian thistles grow in shallow soil as well as other places and they are found in abundance among the barren, glacial scarred granite which outcrops over a large portion of Canada.

I even saw the thistles growing in a field adjacent to the famous Dionne Quintuplets nursery at Callendar, Ontario, and on ground near Sudbury, north of Georgian Bay, where fumes from the big International Nickel Co. plant had killed all other vegetation for miles, and again in the Rocky Mountains in the far western part of Canada.

No effort is made to control the weed in Canada unless it starts to spread in the agricultural areas.

Reminiscent of "stock sales days" in Fayette County was the appearance in this city one day this week, of a colored man who was riding in a wagon, driving two horses and leading two others.

The outfit stopped on Sycamore Street, where it attracted instant attention, and to those who had seen the "hoss traders" come into this city for "stock sales" years ago, the sight was a familiar one, although in all probability the driver (and leader) of the horses was probably not in the horse selling or trading business.

$25 BANK ACCOUNT FOR MEN IN SERVICE

Natick, Mass. Folks Plan Practical Welcome

NATICK, Mass., July 2.—(P)—Every Natick man and woman in the military service will find himself the possessor of a $25 bank account upon returning home if all goes well with a campaign undertaken by a citizens' committee.

The first—$1,100 for 44 bank accounts—was turned over to the committee last night by the E. P. Clark Post of the American Legion.

Committee members said the drive was the first of its kind in the nation. Natick has a population of 15,000, of which 1,500 sons and daughters are in the services.

WAR ECONOMY WAVE SUDDENLY HITS CONGRESS

Reports of Big Profits Made
By War Contractors
Inspire Probes

INTERNAL FEUDS GO ON

Lawmakers Grow Reluctant
To Override Expected
Food Subsidy Ban

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(P)—Congress, after voting stupendous sums for America's war effort, showed an increasing concern today with the cost, and how efficiently those sums were being spent.

As the house heard charges that war contractors were making as much as 53 percent profit, the senate undertook an exhaustive inquiry into what happened to the $330,000,000,000 given the army and navy practically without argument over the months since Axis aggression embroiled this nation.

Rep. Engel (R-Mich.), a one-man investigating committee who toured dozens of factories, delivered his second report which accused companies of including their tax obligations in reckoning costs of production. Thus, he contended, Uncle Sam in final analysis, paid the taxes for those firms. In his first report, he charged the administration with encouraging excessive wages in war plants.

The joint government subcommittee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditure indicated a desire to put the brakes on further bills such as the $71,500,000,000 record war department measure approved this week. Chairman Byrd (D-Va.) said he thought the war could be prosecuted for another two years without appropriating another dollar.

Senator George (D-Ga.) added that he felt the time had come for congress to look thoroughly into all proposed military expenditures. He said taxpayers were "entitled to know there is no extravagance or waste."

Wrangling over a host of appropriations still jammed up funds for war agencies but house and senate conferees were making some progress. Rewritten versions of the amounts for the offices of Price Administration (OPA) and War Information (OWI) were called up for action by both branches.

Congressional ire over the federal communications commission (FCC) hit a new climax as the house committee started public hearings in its investigation of the agency. Committee documents listed more than 50 charges, ranging from general incompetency to endangerment of the national security, against the agency.

The house rules committee invited commerce secretary Jesse Jones to talk about a Canadian project but it was thought likely that he would be quizzed about his hot feud with Vice President Wallace over the operation of the Board of Economic Warfare (BEW).

The house naval committee disclosed that demands of industry for modification of the law authorizing recovery of excess war profits probably would not be met.

German War Production On Down Grade As Result Of Devastating Air Attacks

By R. E. BUNNELLE

LONDON, July 2.—(P)—Strained by nearly four years of total war and hammered day and night by Allied sea power, German industry has lost the production race essential to victory, although Germany still has plenty of fight left, reliable British and foreign sources indicated today.

Figures gathered by these sources suggest that Germany has positively passed her peak as a war-making power and is on the downgrade because of a production decline. More conclusive evidence of this will appear within the year, it was said.

A steady fall in steel production, a narrow margin of oil reserves, an inability to replace vital railway equipment, reduction in tank and plane production and other important symptoms of industrial deterioration appeared in the available figures, the sources said.

Locomotives are another weak spot in Nazi war production. Simplified utility models are being turned out at about 300 monthly, but normal wear is estimated to force discard of between 150 and 200 monthly and in May alone the RAF shot up or destroyed some 150.

Plane production is reported to have dropped sharply this year. Up to last year it was estimated that the output was 2,500 to 3,000 monthly, half of them bombers.

Now, according to the best information, the monthly output ranges between 1,700 to 2,100, of which two thirds are fighters for defense. Italian production also is said to have fallen—from 1,200 monthly last year to 600 or 700 now.

Only in submarine production is Germany on the upgrade, these sources said. Between 25 and 29 are being launched each month, compared with 16 to 19 a year ago, but better Allied defensive measures are said to be taking care of that increase.

From foreign contacts, quoted by a foreign diplomatic source, came the following additional reports of Germany's shortages:

The Germans have ordered armored divisions moved by rail henceforth instead of motor transport to save oil, rubber and motors.

During the past three weeks the Nazis have requisitioned all

Detroit Traitor Saved By Executive Clemency

Max Stephan, lower right, has narrowly escaped death by hanging as a traitor against the United States for having aided Oberleutenant Hans Peter Krug's escape from a prison camp in Canada after he reached Detroit, Mich., in his flight. Stephan operated a restaurant in Detroit and the captive German flier-escapee sought a haven there. Condemned to death after long legal proceedings, Stephan's death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by the President of the United States. The gallows in the federal prison at Milan, Mich., is shown at the top right.

By G. MILTON KELLY

MILAN, Mich., July 2.—(P)—Plucked back from the gallows' shadow seven hours before he was to have been hanged as a traitor, German-born Max Stephan kissed the hands of his lawyer and jailer, wept and shouted for joy until he collapsed—and today looked forward to some future presidential commutation restoring his freedom.

President Roosevelt spared his life. The chief executive commuted to a life term the death sentence which had been pronounced upon the one-time German army sergeant. The order declared "the president hopes that no one of his successors will commute that sentence," but to Stephan the words were cause for wild rejoicing.

James E. McCabe, one of Stephan's attorneys, said he expected no further plea for clemency would be made for his client while the nation is at war.

GERMANS IN NORWAY PREPARE FOR INVASION

STOCKHOLM, July 2.—(P)—German troops in Norway are conducting extensive anti-invasion exercises and have issued detailed instructions to the Norwegians on what it must do in the event of invasion, reports reaching here from Oslo said.

Norwegians were warned to obey the instructions under penalty of death, the report said.

ITALIANS WANT OUT OF WAR AND PROPAGANDISTS HAVING HARD TIME TO CHANGE THEM

BERN, SWITZERLAND, July 2

—(P)—Fascist propagandists, taking a new tack in their campaign to bolster the Italian will to fight, were engaged today in developing the thesis that Italy has nothing to gain by a separate peace and her only course is to resist to the end.

No less an authority than Virginio Gayda, Italy's best known journalist and a Fascist party spokesman, hammered

home this idea in an article in the Giornale D'Italia which apparently reflected concern over Allied attempts to convince the Italian people they would do well to get out of the war now.

"An eventual exit of Italy from the war—that is, the conclusion of a separate peace, which would

Increased Rations Of Food Not Likely Despite Production

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(P)—The Agriculture Department said today prospects were encouraging for increased production of meats during the last half of the year, but it held out little hope that civilians would get larger rations.

The department said slaughter of hogs, particularly in the fall and early winter, should exceed materially last year's July-December total, and that beef cattle marketings were expected to be stepped up considerably.

"Supplies available for civilians, however, will continue smaller than last year," the survey said, because military and lend-lease demands are greater.

Supplies of poultry for civilians will continue to increase, the department predicted, until the seasonal production peak is reached late in the fall. Civilian egg supplies this summer and coming fall probably will be as large as a year ago, but consumer demand will exceed the supply at ceiling prices.

The supply of commercial vegetables for the fresh market so far this season was estimated at 15 percent smaller than in 1942, the result of unfavorable weather. However, growers have indicated their intentions to plant a larger acreage of the major processing vegetable crops in 1943 than was planted last year.

Out-of-State Whiskey Is Held For Refunds

COLUMBUS, July 2.—(P)—A liquor department official said today 3,300 cases of out-of-state whiskey impounded here would be held until permit holders showed a buying pool had refunded amounts which ran purchase payments to more than double list prices.

Tom Craig, (son of Walter D. Craig of Washington C. H.) administrative assistant to Liquor Director Don Fisher, said data recorded with the state for import clearances listed prices ranging from $20.90 to $21.75 a case.

"We determined the retailers actually were charged $55 per case, so we withheld delivery of the shipment until payment in excess of the actual cost were refunded," Craig said.

Fisher's assistant reported he was informed Franklin County members of Ohio Taverns, Inc., bought 5,200 cases of liquor from a Chicago distributor through two Columbus agents, but that 1,900 cases still were at a Vincennes, Ind., distillery.

Craig said whiskey impounded in a Columbus warehouse would be released "to permit holders who have evidence they received their refund," and added that some had receipts to show the money had been paid.

Retailers insisted, Craig said, they had no intention of attempting to evade ceiling prices on the liquor and James Huffman, OPA counsel here, asserted the Federal agency would not object to release of the whiskey providing ceiling price regulations were not violated.

Fisher cautioned that permit holders found dealing in black market liquor operations faced possible revocation of their licenses. Bootlegging, too, is becoming troublesome, Fisher added. He explained that bootleggers were transporting liquor from other states and selling direct to retailers in circumvention of the state monopoly.

CHUNGKING, July 2.—(P)—The Chinese newspaper Ta Kung Po declared today the Japanese had been rushing troops to Manchuria and said "it is plain as day" the enemy "is preparing to attack Siberia."

CHICAGO, July 2.—(P)—A meeting sponsored by the Republican Nationalist Revival committee, Secretary William Grace announced today, adopted a resolution last night calling upon Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, "to stand as a Republican candidate for president" in the Illinois presidential preferential primary next April "against Wendell Willkie," who personifies internationalism.

The committee sponsoring the rally was organized recently with the announced aim to help maintain the Republican party as the "Nationalist Party" in American politics.

Rendova Island Conquest
Completed—Last of Enemy

OCCUPATION IS EXTENDED

Casualties for Americans Reported Light Despite Hazards of Assault

By ROGER GREENE

(By The Associated Press)

Allied naval supremacy in the Southwest Pacific appeared unchallenged today as U. S. warships steamed deep into the northern Solomons, shelling a series of Japanese strongholds, while victorious American troops completed the conquest of Rendova Island after wiping out the enemy garrison.

U. S. shore batteries on Rendova were heavily bombarding the Japanese air base at Munda, New Georgia Island, seven miles away.

American dive bombers also smashed at Japanese positions in the Munda area, the navy said, setting fires and pounded enemy encampments at Vila on Kolombangara Island.

Dispatces said it was not immediately known whether the American warships thrusting 150 miles northwest of the Rendova-New Georgia area represented a diversion or the beginning of expanded operations.

Seven pilots of the 17 United States planes previously reported as missing in communique No. 429 have been rescued.

A bulletin from Admiral William F. Halsey's headquarters announced today that 123 Japanese planes had been blasted out of the skies over the New Georgia Islands Wednesday and Thursday, against a loss of 25 U. S. planes and 15 pilots.

Twenty-two enemy aircraft were destroyed Thursday, a communique said, after 101 had been knocked down the day before as the enemy apparently threw every available aircraft into an attempt to break up the American thrust.

At Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, a spokesman said tonight (Australia time) that there was nothing further to report from the New Guinea or Solomon fronts. From this it was assumed that all operations were proceeding satisfactorily and on schedule.

Never before in this war has this area witnessed such coordinated blows of power, speed and surprise struck by the navy, ground troops and airplanes under the supreme command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In the two sectors of action, New Guinea and the Solomons, the most immediate progress was reported for the eastern arm of the two-pronged drive.

Today's communique disclosed that the United States forces which landed Wednesday on Rendova Island had destroyed the small Japanese garrison there by midday and within two hours after debarking from barges were firing shore batteries at the Munda air base five miles away.

Seizure of the only harbor in the New Georgia sector, Viru, 30 miles from Munda, also was announced. Hard fighting preceded capture.

Gen. MacArthur's command said Allied warships pounded the enemy at Munda and Vila, on nearby Kolombangara Island, and boldly paraded into the heart of the enemy's northern Solomon defenses to attack the Faisi area.

Faisi is a village in the Shortland Islands, 30 miles southeast across Bougainville Strait from the big enemy base of Buin on the southern tip of Bougainville Island.

WEBBER FRENCH FACTORY AGAIN MAKING FEEDERS

Lack of Sufficient Help Retards Production at Local Plant

Webber French's hog lot equipment plant along the B. and O. Railroad at Delaware Street, is operating with about 25 employees, after the work had been restricted by the government last year, due to the fact that metal parts were used for the feeders and other equipment.

At the present time the company is working on orders for a half dozen times as much equipment as can be produced, due to the fact that only 25 men have been obtained so far, and 125 could be used.

The order to go ahead was received recently, but the restrictions imposed provide that wooden roofs be used on the feeders and other equipment, instead of metal roofs such as used before the order to stop was received last year.

Quite a number of men have been employed in the plant to produce the feeders, minus the metal parts, and the wooden parts were produced and stored, awaiting the time when the metal could be obtained.

Since the metal is now available for all but roofs, the work of producing hog lot equipment is moving forward rapidly, even though the plant is handicapped for want of men.

French said Thursday afternoon that he could use at least 100 more men. He said selling prices on the products and wage rates of 1941 are part of the restrictions imposed in connection with production.

Some difficulty in obtaining proper kind of lumber is also being experienced, he stated.

Last year when the plant closed down it was employing approximately 75 men and most of these are now employed elsewhere.

The French factory produces hog lot equipment that is sold in many states.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JOHN MADDUX

Funeral services for John Maddux, 71, prominent resident of the Waterloo community, who died suddenly of a heart attack Wednesday evening, were held Thursday afternoon at his late home and burial made in the Waterloo Cemetery, Rev. W. E. Ewing, of Mt. Sterling, conducted the services.

Mr. Maddux had been in Washington C. H. and upon returning home complained of not feeling well, and died within a short time.

He had long been prominent in Madison Township, and a few days ago was named appraiser of real estate in his district.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Maude Maddux, two brothers and two sisters; Sherman and Collins, of Grange Hall; Miss Ruth at home, and Mrs. Joseph Campbell, of Muncie, Indiana.

RELIGIOUS SERVICE PLANNED FOR JULY 4

Meeting Is To Be Held at Sabina Camp Grounds

Through the efforts of Dr. E. F. Andree, Superintendent of Wilmington District of the Methodist Church, the Fourth of July, which falls on Sunday this year, will be observed with an all-day religious service on the Conference grounds in Sabina.

Church members throughout the district and all who wish to attend are urged to come and spend the day. There is to be starting at 11 A. M. a sermon by Dr. J. C. Williams, pastor of the local church. At 3:30 P. M. Dr. M. J. Murphree of Old Wmthalia, South Rhodesia, Africa will deliver most entertaining and inspiring address.

The Youth Rally will be held from 4 to 6 P. M. with the Clinton County Methodist Brotherhood as hosts for a covered dish supper at this time, to which all are invited.

The evening message will be delivered at 8 P. M. by Dr. Carroll Lewis, pastor of the Hyde Park Community Church, Cincinnati.

All operations of the northwest Africa, Middle East and Malta commands were reported carried out without the loss of a plane.

REDS ON OFFENSE

MOSCOW, July 2.—(P)—Attention swung again today to the extreme southern end of the vast Russian front with Soviet disclosure that long-range bombers had attacked the German occupied ports of Kerch and Senaya, both on the shores of the Crimea opposite the Nazi bridgehead on the Taman Peninsula.

Observers here attached considerable significance to this sudden shifting of the Red air force.

Organization Started For New USO Program

Fayette County has been placed in district 17 with Greene, Montgomery and Preble counties, under the chairmanship of A. B. Sacks of Dayton, as the state was divided into 18 districts for furthering plans for United Service Organization, Inc., activities in the months to come.

No chairman has been announced for the county to coordinate possible fund-raising campaigns with district and state drives later on, but district and county organizations are expected to be perfected in the near future.

Carroll Halliday and Walter Patton have been the leaders in USO campaigns here in the past. Fayette County has never failed to meet its obligations to the men in the service, the records show. Although, there has been no indication of what the USO program for the future, under the new district set-up, contemplates, the general impression is that one of the first steps will be toward raising funds.

The USO is made up of national organizations and is dedicated to the broad purpose of "making a home away from home" for America's fighting men.

Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., is the general chairman of the USO for Ohio.

Taman on the opposite shore, serve as bases to feed supplies to the German troops on the Taman Peninsula and in the Kuban area.

The Russians announced two days ago their aircraft had bombed Port Taman two nights running.

This concentrated aerial activity was interpreted variously by military sources here as heralding either renewed German or Soviet land operations.

Despite these activities in the south, military observers still expect the main German blow to fall in the Orel-Voronezh district on the central front with the object of enveloping Moscow.

RAF MAKES ATTACK

LONDON, July 2.—(P)—Eight enemy fighters were destroyed by British Spitfires and American Thunderbolts in separate sweeps over northern France and the low countries late yesterday, the Air Ministry announced today.

The British lost four aircraft in the fighter sweep and an attack yesterday morning by fighter-escorted Typhoon bombers on an enemy convoy off the Dutch coast. Three merchant vessels and four mine sweepers were said to have been damaged.

Britain passed the night without an alert, rounding out a full week since this country has seen an enemy plane.

In Detroit, Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle had "nothing to say" about the president's assertion that the death sentence he thrice had pronounced upon

The White House statement said President Roosevelt considered Stephan's crime of harboring and assisting an escaped German prisoner of war was less serious than the crime for which six Nazi

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Hitler Knows He'll Lose War
Barring Some Unforeseen
Developments - - Can't Quit

(While DeWitt MacKenzie is on vacation, this daily column is being written by Max Hill, former chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Tokyo)

While we are awaiting developments in the war theaters I have on hand an intriguing question which you might like to try your hands at answering, and it starts like this:

"Doesn't Hitler know that he will be beaten in the long run?"

When that was submitted to me I replied without hesitation:

"Of course he does. And so does the German high command, for they are top-flight soldiers, and the cards patently are against them."

"Well, then," persisted my questioner, "why doesn't Hitler quit now, and save unnecessary bloodshed and suffering for his country?"

That's not so easy to answer, is it? When you sit down to figure it out, a lot of different angles rush to the mind. The first thing that struck me was that my reply hadn't been complete and that therefore I was starting from a faulty premise.

I should have said that Hitler and his military experts know they are beaten—barring some unforeseen development in the nature of a near miracle. The odds are vastly against them, but there's always a possibility that fate might give them a break. And so long as a whisper of chance remains, just so long will the Boche hang on—unless frenzy overcomes morale.

What then is there to encourage them in holding out? In answering this it's mighty important for us to remember that any straw is a life-raft to a drowning man. In brief we may say that any development which is unfavorable to the Allies is grabbed by the enemy as a potential means of salvation.

Just as we watch the Boche eagerly to see what hurts he has sustained and whether his morale is breaking, so he watches us. And in his despairing condition he is bound to magnify little straws of hope.

Take this for illustration: Yesterday London, in reporting on the damage done to the German industrial city of Dortmund by bombing, cited among other things that two collieries had been heavily damaged and probably put out of production. That's an important item which will help to beat Hitler.

Two collieries—my hat! We get satisfaction out of that, while at the same time our domestic news reports record that some 100,000 coal miners still are idle in this country. Birmingham tells us that this has resulted in a cut of 20 percent in Alabama steel production. It's said the reduction will mean a loss of 2,000 tons of war-vital steel every 24 hours.

How much hope do you suppose the Axis extracts from a grave situation like our coal strike? That's enough to give the shaky morale of an entire nation a fillip.

Thus do the Nazis take fresh courage from every breakdown in a vital industry in an Allied country. Strikes, race riots, political squabbles, and what not in the United Nations are choice bits to be rolled under the facile tongue of Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels. His business is to make big issues out of little ones—and he's pretty smart.

We people here in America are casting plenty of straws into the torrent for the enemy to grasp. One of the most disquieting aspects of the situation is the development of an undoubted complacency in some parts of the country. You can see it for yourself if you look about, but I refer you to the staggering statement made by Lt. General Brehon Somervell, commanding general of the Army service forces, in the current issue of the trade publication mill and factory for specific evidence of this.

The general said that the Army was so short of weapons and material that equipment employed in training soldiers was being sent abroad for combat use. He stated that the May output for the Army's supply program was $106,783,000 under the month's quota of $1,600,941,000.

That's a bad score, and the reasons for it are shocking. General Somervell attributes the drop to several factors, including floods, labor shortages and turnover, work stoppage, but "by far the greater part of the failure was due to the psychological let-down—the over-confidence that has

TRADING CARS NOT AS SIMPLE AS BEFORE WAR

Tire Inspection Records Are Essential as Can't Be Switched, Says OPA

Trading cars, especially used cars, is not the comparatively easy matter it once was. You can take that from the Ration Board and the dealers who have to comply with a complex set of regulations.

Switching tires at the time of a trade of cars is forbidden, according to a directive sent the Ration Board here by the Office of Price Administration. This is what it says:

It has been repeatedly brought to our attention that individuals, at the time of trading cars, have attempted to have the tires of the car they are trading in switched to the car they are purchasing. The trade-in car, when used as a partial payment on the new car, definitely indicates that at no time does the purchaser have title to both vehicles. Consequently, a switch of tires could not be authorized, inasmuch as the regulations require that the individual must have title to both vehicles, as well as tire inspection records covering both vehicles.

It is possible that in this transaction a car dealer, for at least a short time, has title, as well as tire inspection records, covering both vehicles and might, according to the regulations, secure permission from the Board for the switching of tires, providing he, the car dealer, presents both tire inspection records and any other information the Board might desire for their consideration.

The board also has received notice that it is to issue no gasoline or tire ration to purchasers of used cars unless:

"1. The existing tire inspection record is surrendered to the board, or

"2. The purchaser is able to prove conclusively by affidavit of the person who was the registered owner of that car on December 12, 1942, that no tire inspection record has been issued for that car."

This, it was said, applies to all cars regardless of the date of transfer.

The board's attention also was called to the OPA order which provides that no automobile may be moved for resale on its own power for more than 200 miles. That order, it was said, went into effect last March 19 when the problem became aggravated by the "large number of used cars being brought into this region" from the Eastern states where gasoline rations have been curtailed. The OPA asked the board here to investigate if it appeared that any car being resold had been driven in excess of the limitation.

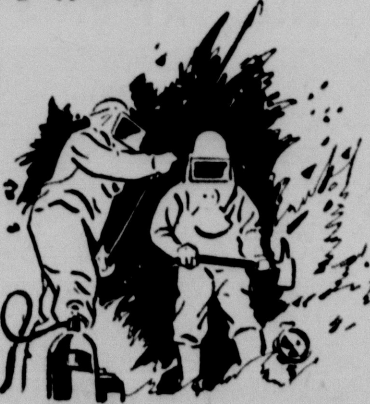

swept the country with favorable news from the battle front."

In short, we are suffering from what the general describes as the "sedative effect" of good news from the war theaters. We shouldn't delude ourselves with the idea that the Boche don't know this, for their agents are everywhere.

It looks decidedly as though it were time for an offensive on the home front.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS "Smoke Eaters"

A battlewagon loaded with various explosives, bombs, torpedoes, oil and gasoline is not the safest place to be with a fire raging, so all but the smaller ships of our Navy are equipped with elaborate fire fighting apparatus.

It may be that this equipment never will be used during the course of the war, but it must be paid for out of the War Bonds and Stamps that we are setting aside each payday. U. S. Treasury Department

Fuel Oil Applications Wanted By Ration Board

Hope was expressed by the Ration Board here that all users of fuel oil, whether for furnaces or kerosene for lamps, stoves etc., would get their application for rations for the coming months to the board "as soon as possible."

It was pointed out that the psychological effects, especially among miners in the valley.

The newspaper said the Ruhr miner considers himself in danger of losing everything and asks, "What good is it to a worker to win the war if thereby he loses the means of livelihood" through destruction?

"Because of this feeling the British terror raids, as we learn from the Reich, awaken more and more a feeling of gloomy des- peration and resignation which extends itself to relatives at the front of the people concerned," the article added.

never succeed—would in no way free the Italians from the war, its tragedy and destruction," Gayda wrote.

While making no direct reference to Germany, Gayda declared that in the event Italy made a separate peace the re- maining belligerents would make Italy a battleground.

Gayda's article was a straight- forward exposition of the theme which the Italian press has been harping on daily—that no matter what the Italian people wish they have no recourse but to fight and that their only hope is to string along with Fascism.

Popolo Di Roma said the Italian people were "impatiently await- ing the first enemy landing at- tempt," adding that "less depends on the first action than on the various actions which will follow the landings."

board has its hands full with the daily increasing pile of applica- tions for renewals of basic gaso- line rations and that those want- ing fuel oil may get caught in the last minute rush if they de- lay sending in their applications.

The board had made special arrangements for renewing fuel oil rations during June to enable users to start getting in their supplies early. It was pointed out that the sooner the applications are filed with the board, the soon- er they can be processed and orders placed for oil. Once the dealers get the orders, backed by OPA rations, tanks can be filled and the inevitable congestion in the fall avoided, it was said.

The application contains only five questions, all of which can be answered easily and within a few minutes. Cooperation of the public, it was said would be of estimable value and help to the Ration Board and at the same time virtually insure the user against empty tanks when cold weather comes.

HORSE SENSE

As a sedative to numb the fear of public debt, the people have been told that no harm could result from the debt because the people merely owed it to themselves.

Harold G. Moulton, head of the Brookings Institution, has knocked the "owe it to yourself" theory into a cocked hat in a booklet entitled, "The New Philosophy of Public Debt." He shows that those who pay taxes to support the debt are not identical with those who receive the interest on the debt or the government bounties which the debt makes possible.

While the people may owe the public debt to themselves, the man who is taxed to pay interest on the debt will soon find that the tax collector will take his shirt if he does not pay his taxes, to pay interest on a debt which he "owes to himself."

Mr. Moulton blasts the idea that public debt can go on growing forever without doing any harm. His remarks shoot close to financial and economic advisors of the government, and to the National Resources Planning Board.

He makes it brutally clear that deficit spending and boundless public debt lead either to totalitarianism or to debt repudiation, and that without "a stable system of public finance... in the United States, and also in other countries, the foundation stone for international reconstruction will rest on quicksand."

His analysis is just plain horse sense, which most everybody understood until they were hypnotized with the suggestion that prosperity could be brought about by priming the pump continuously with public funds. He does not try to prove that government debt is bad, but he does insist that it must be controlled.

The time will come when in spite of all the primings, the pump will suck air if the water supply is exhausted. The earnings of the people are the water in the financial well. Those earnings must come from individual effort and production which depend on prosperous operating industries and agriculture. The pump primers produce no new water.

PLEASURE LAST

Strictly non-essential travel on trains and buses must be eliminated and vacation travel must be rigidly limited. The Office of Defense Transportation directs this earnest warning to everyone, and adds that it is impractical to apply a system of travel priorities. Therefore, it is up to the individual. He can either assert his "privilege" to visit Aunt Hattie and possibly deprive a man of a trip home on furlough—after months of service—or forego the visit in favor of the service man, or the civilian on war business. The same seat cannot render double service. The public must see that the war comes first.

Organized troop movements by rail are proceeding at the rate of over 2,000,000 men a month. They require the constant service of over one-half of all Pullman sleeping cars and of nearly one-fourth (over 3,000) of all day coaches.

Soldiers make an average of eight moves by railroad between induction and embarkation for service overseas. It

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

COLUMBUS, — While Washington has been fooling around with post-war planning, the states have been going to town. The 35th annual governors' conference here proved that nothing else has.

In Washington, they have appointed several committees to study the situation. Some are partisan, some bipartisan. None has progressed beyond the talk stage. The states are writing a different story. There wasn't one of the 40 represented here that hadn't made some actual post-war headway.

Most of the governors are positive the states have not gone far enough. The surpluses that they have piled up (as in the case of Ohio — $20,000,000 for the state welfare and education programs, plus $50,000,000 for "other purposes" on appropriation) won't, they say, make a dent on the post-war situation unless the national government comes through or unless the states develop a self-sufficiency not now apparent.

As Governor John W. Bricker, Republican of Ohio, put it: "If unemployment becomes extensive, the states can provide but a small part of the necessary employment."

Governor Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts is working on the idea that "jobs in private industry for all who are able to work are the surest solution to post-war problems." Thinking of government projects (both national and state) as merely "stop-gaps" between V-day and full peace time employment, the Massachusetts post-war planning committee has been needing private industry to make its own post-war plans and Governor Saltonstall is proud to cite as typical one major war plant which has figured out how it can convert to 175 per cent of pre-war employment without actually firing any war workers.

Governor J. Melville Broughton of North Carolina has a little different slant on the situation. Standing firmly on "states' rights," takes 356 passenger cars, as well as 82 baggage cars and over 900 freight cars, made up in 65 trains, to move an infantry division of 15,000 men and their equipment. Movement of an armored division and its vehicles requires 75 trains of from 28 to 45 cars each. Furlough travel on regularly scheduled passenger trains equals approximately the volume of organized troop travel. Both are to increase substantially during the months immediately ahead. No new railroad passenger cars or locomotives, and no new inter-city buses, are being constructed.

These are a few of the reasons why civilians are being asked to limit their traveling activities. It is no sacrifice to limit your traveling to necessity if it helps your boy get home on furlough or speeds freight on which his very life may depend.

CORRECTION IN SIGHT

A few powerful labor leaders have made monkeys out of the people of this country and our Congress. Their technique is to cause untold damage to the nation and the war effort, and when Congress is ready to crack down with legislation controlling their irresponsible acts, the labor bosses will ease up the pressure to block Congressional action.

The Administration has been largely responsible for this condition. It has failed to supply leadership or national labor legislation, and its blanket opposition to correctives has invited hastily drawn remedies. How much longer labor leaders can defy government and intimidate Congress remains to be seen.

With any faults that the recently passed anti-strike bill may have, it has some good provisions. These include the requirements for financial statements by unions, control of political contributions and the granting of statutory authority to the National War Labor Board. It has been the lack of such authority which enabled John L. Lewis to thumb his nose at the board and treat it with contempt.

If labor leaders are wise they will not provide another exhibition of defiance of government as witnessed in the last coal strike.

Some Ills Need Cure of Mind and Body

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE HAVE been discussing this week a somewhat new development, technically called psychosomatic medicine, which rests on the idea that in a great many diseases not only the body but also the mind and the soul are disturbed, and that they progress together, one influencing the other, towards recovery or towards a more and more involved state of invalidism.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The conception is valuable both from the standpoint of the causation of invalid states and also for the treatment. Certainly one of the legitimate criticisms against the average practitioner of medicine at the present time is that he regards all of his invalids from one of two viewpoints. Either he thinks the disturbance is entirely from malfunction of the body and that it can be treated by cathartics and pills and diet and massage and such things alone, or he veers to the other extreme and thinks that the mind, soul and emotions of the patient are primarily to blame and by the use of suggestion and other forms of psychotherapy he can bring about a complete readjustment.

Functional Somatic Changes
The science of psychosomatic medicine holds to the belief that neither of these views alone is entirely serviceable either to explain the causation or the treatment of disease of this kind.

Of course, it must be remembered that when we refer to somatic changes we mean functional somatic changes. A patient may have a pneumonia which is caused by the entrance of a germ into the lungs and produces completely organic changes that can be seen and felt and detected under the microscope. Nothing that the patient thinks or feels about this condition has any influence on it at all.

But take such a functional condition as the headache which we call migraine, which comes in attacks, or the extreme fatigue that goes with neurasthenia; while these symptoms are very real, we have never been able to find any change in the tissues of the body of which they are the seat to explain the symptoms. A muscle, when it contracts, makes a functional change; so does an intestine when it goes into cramps. After the muscular spasm is over, the muscle and the intestine look exactly the same as before. This is what we mean by functional.

Anxiety Neuroses
Besides neurasthenia and migraine the psychosomatic advocates think of anxiety neuroses, states of mental depression, neuralgia, many forms of arthritis and dyspepsia as examples of psychosomatic disease.

The entire field of the endocrine glands is a very good example of psychosomatic medicine. The gland secretes too much or too little and it may not appear to be diseased whatever under the microscope. And yet emotional factors may cause this increase or decrease in secretion, which in turn creates the symptoms of which the patient complains. Quite evidently in all these different conditions it is quite as important to approach the patient from the mental, emotional and psychic side, as well as to take advantage of the use of medicine, diet, massage, baths, exercise and a dozen other modalities known to the modern physician.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. B. B.: What about women with valvular disease of the heart due to rheumatic fever bearing children?

Answer: If the heart has compensated, this can be done without jeopardy. I once knew a patient with this condition who had had thirteen children.

D. C.: Is it true a tuberculin vaccine would show if you ever had tuberculosis? Would a fluoroscope be more accurate? I have heard they were dangerous to a patient.

Answer: A tuberculin skin test is absolutely accurate in tuberculosis, but it does not tell whether the tuberculosis was recently acquired, or is healed, or where it is. The fluoroscope is an X-ray with the patient standing in front of a screen so that the X-ray man can see the chest, but it does not take a permanent film. In my opinion, a permanent X-ray film, which really means a photograph, is the only way tuberculosis shows up by means of the X-ray. Neither tuberculin nor fluoroscope is harmful.

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE

ROSITA PASSED through a metamorphosis during those tortured hours strapped to a chair in the darkened dressing room. The horrible purpose she had sensed behind her captors' veiled words had at last ripped the veil of her dreamy illusions, shattered her childish self-absorption. That bright, false world in which she had moved the proud, rightful owner of the hacienda, was gone. Sharply she saw the shadowy place she and the traditions she loved actually held in the new world of the hacienda... her helplessness when she got in the way, of the ruthless "new order."

Terror raged through her, sending her into hysterical, writhing paroxysms to free herself until the cord-left bloody marks on her arms and she was half fainting with pain and exhaustion.

Once she heard Miguel. He had come back from his errand, and was talking to Parkinson below her window. Was there anything more he could do for the señor tonight? Parkinson told him there was nothing—to go back to his shack and go to bed. Rosita worked desperately again at her bonds. She tried to scream until her head rang with the effort—but only a gurgling came through the gag. With a hopeless sob, she heard Miguel's shuffling gait cross the courtyard.

The night wore on. One by one she heard the servants go past to their quarters. But the Parkinsons, snapped on the light above her desk and worked there for a few minutes in frowning concentration. Then she took the paper and went out again with quick, sharp steps, paying no attention to Rosita's mumbled pleading. Rosita slumped in her chair, tears of fright and weakness flooding her lovely dark eyes as the crushing weight of her helplessness bore down on her.

She was in a semi-coma of emotional prostration when the Parkinsons finally came to get her. Mr. Parkinson was pale, distraught. His hands trembled as he untied her.

"I'm not sure we shouldn't leave her right here," he murmured.

"For an enemy, she has seen too much," Mrs. Parkinson was impatient at his wavering.

"All right," he said heavily. "I'll get it over."

Mrs. Parkinson moved across the semi-dark bedroom and opened the door. "I'll go ahead and make sure no servants are loitering around."

Parkinson shook Rosita until she resisted feebly, her terror rising to hysteria at sight of him. He was forced to jerk her roughly along the hallway and out through the doors leading onto the secondstory balcony. Mrs. Parkinson stayed in the hall. Rosita was snapped into sharp awareness by pain as Parkinson ripped off the tape over her lips. "Now, scream your head off," he said roughly, pushing her toward the railing.

"Stop!" she cried frantically. "I shall fall!"

He laughed. "That's the idea," he snapped. "Since you are so stupid, I must tell you. You are committing suicide."

"No!" Rosita's glazed eyes looked for one minute over the railing down to the flagstone patio below. "No! No! No!" She fought with wild, desperate fury that sent him back across the balcony cursing. And as she faced him—a fragile, bright-eyed animal at bay, they both heard the noise of the Fordango rattling up to the iron gate. Parkinson's taunting, casual attitude dropped. He crossed the small balcony toward the screaming girl in a rush of purpose. To be stopped short by the sharp bark of an automatic. He fell back with a curse of pain, grabbing his arm.

Curley was racing across the patio. Gun trained on Parkinson, he made the balcony steps three at a time, ordering tersely, "Keep your hands in the air!" As he reached the balcony, he dropped to his knees, escaping narrowly a rain of bullets from the dark hallway. Mrs. Parkinson opened the door, her revolver trained on him. The next instant it was shot from her hand! Curley leaped to his feet. "Get back, both of you—your hands up! There are times when I don't like the way you folks play." He pushed Rosita ahead of him down the stairs, keeping his gun on the Parkinsons. He crossed the patio with her and climbed into the Fordango at the gate, to rattle out of range of Parkinson's spiteful fusillade.

In the cold gray of dawn, Rosita was a crumpled, moaning little heap on the car seat.

"Poor kid," Curley murmured. "I'll take you into the village."

Rosita raised a haunted, white face. "No!" she pleaded faintly. "Take me to Miguel! Please take me to Miguel's house!"

Curley frowned. "But Miguel is Parkinson's loyal slave!"

The girl shook her head violently. "Miguel belong to my father first. He tell me if I am ever frightened at the hacienda, come to him." Reluctantly Curley turned the Fordango down the rutted path that led to Miguel's shack. Miguel, blinking at the door in his long nightgown, seemed to know after one anxious look at the girl's stricken face, what had occurred.

"The Parkinsons—they hurt you!" Rosita broke into tortured sobs of weakness, and Miguel led her hastily into the shack, gently urged her into a chair. When he turned back to Curley, his brown, wrinkled peon face was twisted with grief. "I have fear this," he said brokenly. "She is arguing with them too much lately. And they are growing mucho hard and strange."

"Do you think it's safe for her here?" demanded Curley. "Hah! I better take her into town?"

"No, no, no," cried the old man fearfully. "They would follow her now and kill her. I am so grateful, señor, that you bring her to me—so grateful. I am only one who can protect her."

"But how can you protect her?" Curley asked impatiently.

Miguel was hurrying about the shack, gathering up blankets from his cot, food from his cupboard. "You take us to the hill above the bend of the creek," he said. "From there I take her to the hiding place no one knows but me since her mother's death. You have saved her life, señor. And Miguel will pay you!"

Steve Landis paced his office that morning until the FBI men arrived. He greeted them tersely and began without preface. "Sorry to call you so early, but I have news."

The men waited eagerly. Steve felt excited, triumphant and at the same time, guilty. He had won, but the victory was without savor. He said, "This morning, just before dawn, Jean Marsden phoned me. She is at the hotel again. Last night Curley, Parkinson's handy man, got her off the train with a fake excuse, and kept her in the next town until she had promised to return to her job here."

One of the American agents looked confused. "I don't follow you," he said.

Steve explained Curley's purpose in using Jean in his scheme to get possession of the second half of the formula in the company safe.

"But how could he force her to do such a thing?" protested the FBI man.

"Because," Steve admitted reluctantly, "he believed she was in love with him."

"Oh!" The two American detectives faced each other, slow understanding brightening their faces.

"That's the proof you've been waiting for," Steve said flatly. "Will you close in on the gang today?"

The second FBI man thrummed on his chair. "I think we ought to wait," he said at last. "There's a special operative coming in this morning. He'll be able to advise us." The second FBI man nodded. Steve frowned, bewildered at their casual, almost humorous reception of his stunning news. Then he whirled to follow their gaze toward his office door as one of them said, "Here he is now."

Grimacing at them from the doorway—was Curley!

War Hardest on Children, Doctor Says

By ADELAIDE KERR

Doctora Dolores Pinero, Puerto Rican specialist in child hygiene, says that the world's children have been "abandoned because of the war." As a result she believes they will be our biggest postwar problem.

Doctora Pinero, who is a mother herself, is the first director of Puerto Rican School Hygiene. She is spending several months in New York, visiting child clinics and health centers in search of ideas adaptable to Puerto Rico.

"We have a big problem in Puerto Rico," said Doctora Pinero as we chatted in her brother-in-law's uptown apartment. "It lies in the physical condition of our children and is caused by diet. People are poor and they are not nutritious conscious. Lots of children live on rice and bananas. As a result they are anemic and underweight. Our problem is to educate the parents."

"But it's a small problem compared to the one which the world faces in the postwar period. The biggest problem then will be the children themselves. They have been abandoned because of the war—and we are going to reap the results."

Doctora Pinero leaned forward earnestly.

"Everybody knows of the undernourished little bodies and the stunted growth of the children in Nazi-occupied countries. But too few people realize how much our own children are suffering as a result of the war. Women by the thousands are working outside and leaving their homes and children alone."

"Even those who are adequately cared for in nurseries or elsewhere miss the warmth of a mother's care and companionship. They are lonesome and reach out for anything they can find to make up the loss. Five-year-olds get permanent waves and twelve and fourteen-year-olds seek movies, dances and other adult pleasures. Mother is not at home enough to discipline them and teach them self control. They become emotionally unstable. Yet they are the next generation that must run the world. How can that instability maintain peace?"

"It is indeed a serious problem. The women are needed outside now. But only a small percentage of mothers seem able to handle adequately both jobs and homes."

Doctora Pinero said that she saw no solution as long as the war lasts. But her serious medical look indicated that she was giving the matter considerable thought. Ordinarily Doctora Pinero does not wear a serious look. Her dark Latin eyes snap, her diamond earrings twinkle, her smile flashes frequently as she talks in fluent English flavored with a slight accent.

Doctora Pinero was born in Puerto Rico and schooled in the United States, where her father came to educate his children. She received her M.D. degree from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Boston in 1913 and returned to Puerto Rico to use it. Her first outstanding work was as contract surgeon assigned to the U. S. base hospital at San Juan in the first World War. She was married in 1919 to Celestino Lopez, a pharmacist, who accompanied her on this trip. In the last 20 years she has conducted a private practice, and has served as superintendent of the Puerto Rican Psychiatric Hospital. She came to her present job in August, 1942.

FOX TERRIER FEEDS HUNGRY PIGS

HER OWN PUPPIES disposed of, Trixie, fox terrier owned by the Joseph Wagners of Owosso, Mich., has taken over the job of feeding two little pigs whose mother killed and ate the other five in the litter. Trixie spied the two pigs nursing from bottles, pushed bottles away, and started suckling the pigs. She's still doing it. (International)

Barbara Allen Honor Guest at Birthday Party

Observing her sixteenth birthday, Miss Barbara Allen was a charming young honor guest at a party Wednesday evening, given by her mother, Mrs. William C. Allen.

The girls gathered at the Allen home at seven o'clock and then went to the Fayette Theatre to see the picture "Gildersleeve's Bad Day". Following the show, they returned to the Allen home for dancing and a gay time. A shower of gifts was presented to Miss Allen.

At twelve o'clock the girls were invited to the dining room table where a beautifully decorated birthday cake drew the admiration of all as the centerpiece. A most delicious midnight snack, with all sorts of good things so popular among the group, was enjoyed.

A gay slumber party rounded out the entertaining, followed by a brunch Thursday morning, and enjoyed by Martha Lou Burnett, Marjorie Peterson, Nancy Devins and Barbara Tracey.

Country Club Luncheon Most Delightful Affair

An ideal July day, hostesses very apt in extending the gracious courtesies of the afternoon, and perfect appointments, formed conditions in making the fortnightly luncheon-bridge at the Washington Country Club Thursday, an affair of the utmost pleasure.

Mrs. Sam Parrett, Mrs. W. L. Stinson, Mrs. Frank Little and Mrs. Glenn Pine, the quartet of hostesses, received in a glory of summer flowers, which added beauty to the club ensemble. Large baskets and smaller formed a perfect background for the thirty members and guests.

For the serving of a delicious luncheon, by the club hostess, Mrs. Hazel Devins, the guests were seated at one long table, extending across the dining room, and flanked by smaller tables. Arrangements of summer blooms, both artistic and lovely, were admired as centerpieces.

After the gay sociability around the luncheon table, the afternoon was enjoyed in progressive contract. Miss Mary Barnes and Mrs. Hughey Thompson won attractive high score favors.

Adding much to the pleasure were four out-of-town guests, Mrs. Charles Laymon, of Detroit; Mrs. Orland Snyder and Mrs. Lawrence Field, of Columbus and Miss Florence Michael, of Delray Beach, Fla.

Entertaining the guests on her attractive screened front porch, Mrs. William Swope provided a most delightful time for the Matrons' Class of the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Porter and Mrs. John Laylander were included as guests with the members. Hollyhocks were placed at vantage points on the spacious porch and were colorful notes to the attractive furniture arranged most comfortably.

At the conclusion of the lengthy business session, Mrs. Swope served tempting refreshments, assisted by Mrs. John Groff and Mrs. Ira Scott.

Bruce McLean Is Honor Guest At Picnic Party

Bruce McLean, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. McLean, was a handsome and most cordial guest of honor Thursday evening, when his parents invited eighteen of his young playmates for a gay party. The youngsters gathered at the McLean home on Leesburg Avenue at half past four o'clock and from there hiked to the roadside park at the Fairgrounds.

A hilarious time of games and contests, provided by Mr. McLean, kept up a continuous round of laughter, and was followed by a weiner roast and tempting supper. Tiny little American flags were presented to each guest as favors.

After the supper, the group returned to the McLean home for more games and enjoying the swings and other pleasures afforded by the young guest of honor.

Those included in the party with Bruce were Jimmy Rife, Beverly and Jerry Carmen, Nancy Kimmey, Bobby Cullen, Harry Griest, Bobby Yarger, Bobby Stackhouse, Gerald Leasure, David Vance, Maynard Elliott, Teddy Willis, Jimmy Croker, Eddie Sheets, Darlene Thornton, Portia Brownell, Linda Sheley and Joan Anderson.

Ration Values Of Beef Go Up As Supplies Shrink

REVISED TABLE IS TO GO INTO EFFECT JULY 4

Changes Made in Values Of Processed Foods—12 Rise and 5 Drop

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(P)—The Office of Price Administration (OPA), predicting a new low in beef supplies available for civilians, in July, today increased ration values of beef cuts by another point a pound, and in a few cases, 2 points.

The new point values for beef, which place the ration cost of the most popular cuts at from 9 to 13 points, become effective July 4. Unless the supply situation should warrant changes in the meantime, the new point values will remain in effect until August 1.

Officials said the revised values were based on the present "bad" meat supply situation, with no allowance for improvement or deterioration. Any appreciable change in the supply might necessitate changes before the end of the month.

In addition to higher point values for beef, OPA also raised red coupon costs of some cuts of veal, lamb and mutton from 1 to 2 points a pound. These cuts include leg of veal, veal cutlets, veal loin and rib chops, and similar lamb-mutton cuts. Point values of the most popular pork cuts were not changed.

Canned fish items, with the exception of oysters, were increased from 8 to 12 points. Oysters went up from 3 to 5 points.

"Red" reductions were confined for the most part to the fats, oils and dairy products groups. Margarine and lard dropped 1 point—5 to 4—while "process" butter, sold mainly in the south, appeared on the table for the first time at 4 points a pound. Regular butter remains unchanged at 8 points.

Cheddar cheese retains a value of 8 points a pound, but lower values were established for group 2 and 3 cheeses. Group 2, which includes cream, Neufchatel and creamed cottage cheese (containing more than 5 percent butter fat) now are listed at 2 points a pound, and group 3, made up of Swiss, brick muenster and all other rationed cheese, 5 points. In each group there is a decrease of 1 point.

OPA also announced 17 changes in point values of processed foods, 12 upward and 5 downward.

Point value advances were made in seven vegetable items, and five canned bottled fruits. These increases range from about 5 percent for vacuum-packed whole kernel corn to over 50 percent for tomato catsup and chili sauce. Processed foods marked up include apples, apricots, fruit cocktail, peaches, pears, fresh lima beans, canned corn, peas, tomatoes, catsup, chili sauce and tomato paste, reductions were made in fresh shell beans, green or wax beans, tomato pulp or puree and some tomato sauces.

The new "blue coupon" costs become effective July 4, and will remain valid through July. Pork point values were not increased, OPA said, because supplies of pork available during July are expected to be substantially larger than beef. By keeping pork point costs relatively cheap in comparison with beef, OPA hopes to whet the American appetite for pork.

In line with beef increases on the general list, OPA advanced point values for all kosher cuts except variety meats.

Here are some of the new point values for preferred beef cuts, all up one point:

Porterhouse, T-bone, club and sirloin steaks, 12 points; boneless sirloin, round and flank steaks, 13 points.

Beef roasts, for the most part went up 1 point, but some advances were 2 points. Beef steaks and numerous other cuts also went up 1 point.

Lamb-mutton advances included: Loin chops, 10 points, up 1; leg chops and steaks, 8 points, up 1; leg roasts and sirloin roast, bone in, 7 points, up 1.

Only meats to show a reduction were three pork cuts—fat backs and clear plate, jowls and regular parts, down 1 point a pound.

HEAT DAMAGES MANY HIGHWAYS ALL OVER STATE

'Bleeding' Surfaces Very Common During Recent
Torrid Weather

Widespread damage to highways in the state occurred during the recent hot weather, officials report and some damage was done to roads in Fayette County where the hot sun caused much "bleeding" of blacktop roads, and heavy trucks damaged the soft surfaces.

Some minor "blow ups" also took place and were given attention without delay as soon as the road crews were notified.

In the state at large more than 10,000 miles of the 18,475 miles of state road have been adversely affected by the excessive heat and unusually heavy war-time traffic.

Harry D. Metcalf, chief engineer of the Ohio Department of Highways, division of maintenance, and his engineering aides in the department's 12 divisions, were confronted this week with a maintenance and repair problem akin to the one following last winter's high water and extreme cold which did more than $2,000,000 damage to the roads.

The bituminous-treated highways "soften up" under the excessive heat and the material "runs," producing a sticky condition which is an irritation to the traveler, creates a traffic hazard and deteriorates the road.

Traffic "picks up" this softened material and by so doing cuts deeply into the pavement. Where blowouts occur the pavement buckles, huge blocks of material spring from their base, causing another traffic hazard.

Among the counties where blowouts have been most frequent are Hancock, Ashland, Huron, Fulton, Henry, Trumbull, Stark, Clark, Geauga and Wood. The "bleeding" on bituminous roads has been reported from all parts of the state. In Clark county 12 "blowouts" were checked in one day, while in one day on Route 30-N in Hancock county four occurred. Six were reported in the Cleveland area in a day.

Metcalf reported that the department is doing everything it can to remedy these conditions by screening "bleeding" surfaces and repairing blowouts.

PENNEY STORES PLAN NATION-WIDE DRIVE

War Bond Sales Pushed
From Coast To Coast

In line with announcement of a nation-wide war bond and stamp sales drive by the J. C. Penney Company department stores, beginning July 1, plans for this campaign at the local Penney store were announced by G. C. Crouse, store manager, as including the extreme effort on the part of each and every employee to sell the greatest number of bonds and stamps possible during the entire month of July.

As a send-off to the coast to coast campaign, Secretary of the Treasury Henry J. Morgenthau, Jr., prepared a message of congratulation and good wishes addressed to every Penney employee.

This is the second time the Penney Company has been recognized in this way. At the conclusion of Penney's $8,422,553.85 July Bond drive last year, Secretary Morgenthau once before accorded the Penney Company personal congratulations.

Penney employees, determined that the Treasury Department will again find their July sales of War Bonds and Stamps worthy of attention, start off this July with sales at least $10,000,000.00 as their goal.

The Penney Company's Bond drive this July, like that last year, takes the form of a sales contest

When a Navy man's foot hits shore, you can bet his thoughts are 99% about romance. Tyrone Power, starred in the exciting new 20th Century-Fox technicolor hit, "Crash Dive," is no exception. As soon as his submarine docks, Tyrone heads for Anne Baxter in the film—and it would seem that the lovely young lady is not adverse to his attentions. "Crash Dive" is at the Fayette Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Sabina Community

Honored with Dessert Bridge

Mrs. Willard Henry and Mrs. Charles Showen entertained with a lovely dessert bridge party at the home of the former, honoring Mrs. Orville Wilson, of Westfield, N. J.

Mrs. Darrel Brakefield received high score prize, Mrs. J. C. Phelps second high, and Mrs. M. A. Gire the consolation gift. The hostesses presented Mrs. Wilson with a lovely guest prize.

Those present to enjoy the delightful evening were Mrs. Brakefield, Mrs. Phelps, Mrs. Gire, Miss Estelle Custis, Mrs. E. L. Roshon, Mrs. Raymond Cline, Mrs. Walter Stackhouse, Mrs. Earl Morris, Mrs. John Barnes, Mrs. James McWilliams, Mrs. Harry Erick, Mrs. T. Gavin Foster, Mrs. L. V. Runyan and Mrs. Stanley M. Johnson.

Circle 3 WSCS Meets

Mrs. Eugene Van Pelt was a gracious hostess to members of Circle 3, WSCS, at her country home for their June meeting.

Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Williams were guests with the 14 members present. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Walter Stackhouse, assisted by Miss Pauline Wilson and Mrs. T. Gavin Foster.

Mrs. Van Pelt, circle chairman, presided.

The program consisted of an excellent paper on South American countries read by Mrs. Harry F. Erick, also a paper, "Malia the Beloved," read by Mrs. Virgil Smith.

Delicious lemonade and cookies were served by the hostess during the happy social hour.

Mrs. Van Pelt Hostess to WCTU

Mrs. John Van Pelt welcomed 12 members of the WCTU to her country home on the CCC highway east of Sabina, Thursday afternoon for their June meeting, with Mrs. Elmer McPherson as co-hostess.

Mrs. Minnie Carr of Cynthia, Ky., Mrs. J. C. Williams, Mrs. Nelson Case and Miss Martha Van Pelt were pleasant guests.

Mrs. H. H. Griffith, president, led the devotions and conducted the business session. Mrs. Williams offered a fervent prayer for the temperance work.

Miss Martha Van Pelt gave a reading, "When I Have Time." This being Flower Mission Day, the secretary, Mrs. McPherson, in which all employees and all stores of the chain compete for state and national awards.

children who appeared on the program with readings and special music. She deserves much credit for the splendid entertainment. Dr. J. C. Williams closed the meeting with a short talk, "Learning Christ's Ways," which was greatly enjoyed by the children and older folks also. A generous offering was received for student work.

Boy Scouts Meet

The Boy Scouts met Tuesday evening and reported the bottle collection netted them almost $25 toward 4-H Camp expenses this summer. They wish to extend thanks to all for their cooperation.

Under the leadership of Bill Beam and Dwight Sparks the boys enjoyed a swim later in the evening.

Reception for Dr. Williams

The reception held for Dr. and Mrs. Williams at the Elm Street Methodist Church Friday evening was largely attended and an interesting program was given as follows:

Piano prelude, Mrs. Walter Stackhouse.

Welcome to the pastor, Dr. Williams by Prof. L. U. Runyan.

Welcome to Mrs. Williams by Mrs. Stanley M. Johnson president of the Ladies WSCS.

Responses by Dr. and Mrs. Williams were entertaining and well received.

Rev. January, minister of the Friends Church, who also came from Columbus and previously knew Dr. Williams spoke of being glad to renew their friendship here as co-workers in the community.

Dr. E. F. Andree, superintendent of the district, welcomed them into the district saying there were 7 other new members to be received this year. Mrs. Andree spoke and said she and Mrs. Williams were already workers in the Conference in an official capacity and hoped to be much help to each other.

Rev. E. J. Meacham, also formerly of Columbus, was a guest at the reception, following the wedding he had attended.

Mrs. Leslie Davis, sweetly sang, "Soft Are the Hands of Jesus," with Mrs. Stackhouse as accompanist.

All were invited to the dining room where dainty refreshments were served and a most pleasurable hour spent in receiving acquaintances and congenial visiting.

Personsals
Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hamilton of Dayton spent their summer vacation last week with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Fittro and son, Bobby.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Darbyshire with Mr. and Mrs. J. Meredith Darbyshire of Wilmington were business visitors in Cincinnati Friday.

Mrs. J. M. Belle of Circleville was a visitor with Sabina relatives last week.

Cpl. James Matson and Mrs. Matson came Friday evening from Tyler, Tex., for a visit with Sabina relatives, Cpl. Matson getting a 10 day furlough.

Mrs. Eugene Van Pelt, superintendent of the primary department, was in charge of the 25

Taken to Hospital

"Bobby" Ferguson, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferguson, of Wilmington, who was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shadley here last week was taken suddenly ill and removed to the Good Samaritan Hospital, Cincinnati, for observation and treatment. At present he is reported improving slightly.

Methodist Children's Day

The Children's Day program at the close of the Sunday School hour in the Methodist Church was largely attended.

The platform was filled with beautiful baskets of summer flowers and with the youth choir, made a lovely background for the program. Miss Avonell Brown was at the console of the pipe organ.

Mrs. Eugene Van Pelt, superintendent of the primary department, was in charge of the 25

KEEP FREEDOM RINGING!

★1943★

July 4, 1943, finds every American sharing one common purpose—to keep that Liberty Bell ringing! And because we are all fighting to protect our freedom and independence, this year's Fourth will not be celebrated by the traditional festivity of parades, firecrackers and fun-making. No indeed! Instead, the factory whistles will call our workers to a full eight hours behind the production lines . . . the bugler's reveille will herald another day of battle for our fighting men . . . and the barnyard rooster will do his bit to help our farmers to an early start harvesting crops that will feed the world. And perhaps, while working, we will hear the far-off sound of fife and drum and feel more keenly the spirit of those men who fought 167 years ago to give us the heritage we are protecting today.

NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME HURLED BY WARNER AS GRANGERS WIN, 4 TO 0

Russ Warner, pitcher for the Fayette Grange softball team, pitched a no-hit, no-run game Thursday night against the Presbyterian Church team. This is the first no-run no-hitter pitched this year in the league. The final score was Grangers 4 and Presbyterians 0.

The Presbyterians only had one man on base during the whole game and this was in the sixth inning when Jim Boylan got a walk.

The Grangers made all four of their runs in the first inning. However, they got at least one on base in every inning except the fourth.

Both of these teams had previously been undefeated in league competition. The Presbyterians won from the Methodists last week by a score of 12 to 0 and the Fayette Grange plastered the Dot Food Store team 13 to 2.

No games will be played for the remainder of this week and no game has been scheduled for next Monday. On Tuesday, the Coffman Stair Co. team, which has won both of its games this year, will clash with the Presbyterians, who have won one and lost one.

Following is the box score of Thursday night's game:

-Spying- On Sports By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, July 2.—(P)—Maybe you think things are a bit dull in the sports line, but the word is that they're having a right good season in northern Africa. We have this straight from Corp. Vince Murphy, occasional contributor to this column and son of Sports Editor Jimmy Murphy of the Canton (Ill.) Daily Ledger.

V-Mail
"Probably the most interesting event yet pulled off in N. Africa, excluding Rommel's bicycle act," Vince writes, "was a softball game played recently for a $2,000 pot. It seems that a news story praising a team composed of a group of former Texas footballers playing under the name of the 'Texans' was read by members of a mid-western unit whose ball club is called the 'Omvas.' The Omvas claimed a prior victory over the Texans and allowed they could repeat. Upshot of the discussion was the decision that each team would wager 1,000 skins on a winner-take-all basis. Partisans of both teams were quick to collect funds to back their favorites and the game drew 3,000 fans. The Omvas took the decision 6-4, although the Texans gave them a mighty scare in the final inning when one of the Lone Star boys hoisted a mighty drive that the Omvas centerfielder had to take off the fence."

Nat Fleischer, historian of the ring, whose latest list shows 3,068 professional boxers and about twice as many amateurs in the armed forces, also has been hearing from northern Africa. In Weekly fight shows in Tunisia have been drawing big crowds and when American soldier scrapes meet up with native boxers the boys really lay their dough on the line to back their favorites.

Domestic Dept.
When Clark Shaughnessy collected his first Pitt football squad for practice the other day, he told them, "We will have as many as 10,000 pass plays." And in reply to a few skeptical looks, Clark insisted that with small variations he might really approach that figure. Since Pitt has only six veterans on a squad of 56, one variation likely will be the play where the coach buries his face in his hand and refuses to look until it's over.

Reds Defeat Dodgers in Goofy Game

BROOKLYN, July 2.—(P)—The Cincinnati Reds and the Brooklyn Dodgers take to the twilight today to wind up their four-game series, which so far has proved little except that you never know what's going to happen in Brooklyn.

Elmer Riddle, final and winning pitcher of yesterday's 12-inning 10-9 Cincinnati victory, is down to throw for the Reds again today, against Kirby Higbe.

Riddle worked only the 12th inning of yesterday, merry-go-round and half-protected a two-run lead the Reds put together in their half. Elmer handed out three walks and a single to let the Dodgers creep up, then he got the next three men on pop outs.

The Reds got to Bo-Bo Newsom for four singles and a squeeze bunt to score their two runs in the 12th.

Lonnie Frey, Cincinnati second baseman, hit his first home run of the season in the sixth.

Chisox Rookie Outfielder Has Hot Streak with Bat

BY HUDSON BAILEY
(By The Associated Press)

Since Joe DiMaggio swept through his spectacular 56-game hitting streak two years ago every other consecutive-game hitting performance has been dwarfed into insignificance.

But a little known rookie outfielder for the Chicago White Sox, Guy Paxton Curtright, right now is nursing a hot hitting streak that has reached 26 games and it rates attention from the fans not only because it is the longest of the year but because it has made Curtright currently the leading batter in the major leagues.

His average today was a glossy .362, ten points better than Babe Dahlgren of the Phillies, the National league leader, and 24 better than Vernon Stephens of the St. Louis Browns, who has been the American league pace-maker most of the spring.

Curtright is a chunky right-handed hitter whom the White Sox brought up from St. Paul this spring. He made only one hit yesterday, but this was a lousy triple and it kept his streak going although it did not figure in the Sox' 2 to 0 triumph over the Washington Senators.

Local Horses Not on Track On Thursday

Horses trained and owned here again were missing from the Grand Circuit racing at Cleveland's North Randall mile track Thursday evening, but followers of the sport in Fayette County were keeping a eye on the summaries of results to "get a line" on the horses, many of which will be coming here for the Fair races the last week in July.

Chief interest for the moment centers on Elmer Junk's brown pacer, Doctor S, which has started to blaze a trail of glory by winning six out of the eight starts this year after a dismal failure last year as a four-year-old, and the two-year-old sensation, Wilkin, which his first owner and trainer, Harold Laymon, sold during the meeting at Marion. Wilkin had not returned to his last year's form and horsemen here are wondering how long it will take for him to get back into the winner's circle under the handling of Wayne (Curley) Smart, his new conditioner and driver.

Ben White, 70-year-old trainer and driver of harness horses, was to make his first Grand Circuit appearance of the year at the North Randall Friday.

The veteran reinsman, complained of dizziness on the opening day of the meeting and has been in Cleveland clinic for observation.

He will pilot Director, owned by E. J. Merkle of Columbus, O., in the American stake for two-year-old trotters. The event has a value of 4,295.

Harness Horseman Well Known Here Called by Death

Ben Sturgeon, 55, widely known harness horse race driver and trainer, who had many friends among the followers of the sport in Fayette County where he has often driven in the races at the Fair, is dead.

Death came unexpectedly Thursday at the home of Sheriff Charles Brewley in Bellefontaine. He had trained and driven the sheriff's horses for years, many of which have raced here in the past.

Sturgeon, had often said he would like to train at the Fairground track here but, after making preliminary arrangements for barns in the fall, never realized his ambition. He was one of the many trainers and drivers who had said they considered the track here not only one of the fastest in the country for racing but also one of the best for training purposes because of its cinder path around the outside of the unusually wide racing strip.

DOUBLE FEATURE!

Johnston EXTERIOR PRIMER

Johnston SURETY BOND PAINT

OUR feature attraction—the Aristocrat of House Paints! SURETY BOND is "adia-thermatic"—a unique Johnston process that filters out the sun's destructive ultra-violet (fading) and infra-red (heat) rays. This smooth, lustrous paint goes farther—one gallon averages 450 square feet, two coats. It protects and stays brilliantly white (or true in color) years longer than other "first-grade" house paints.

EXTERIOR WHITE PRIMER

IN THE supporting role is Johnston EXTERIOR PRIMER. This "different" primer makes house paint "stick tight"—provides stout bond between paint and undersurface, through controlled penetration and balanced pigmentation. Counteracts checking, scaling—hides well, gives finished job better gloss, longer life, over new wood or brick.

Use BOTH For DOUBLE House-Paint Satisfaction!

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, July 2.—AP—Hedge selling and profit-taking entered the wheat pit in a fair volume today, checking the recent advance. The market had a firm undertone at the start but declined rather easily later in the day when Speaker Rayburn said he expected the President to veto the Commodity Credit Corporation bill.

Oats and the deferred months of rye were off with the bread cereal, but July rye displayed independent strength on reports that tenders of cash grain on July contracts had gone into strong hands. The grain was said to have been taken by the same interests which took large quantities when May contracts were closed out.

At the close wheat was down 1½¢, July $1.47½, September $1.47½-¾, oats were off ¼¢, July 69½¢, and rye was ¼¢ lower to 2½¢ higher, the gain being secured by the July contract which closed at $1.05½.

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, July 2.—AP—Customary pre-holiday indecision gripped the stock market today—domestic exchange, with recess Monday and a white assorted favorites made a little headway, many leaders jogged along at slightly lower levels.

Pleasant news from the Far Pacific, idle funds and persistence of inflation ideas again served as props for prices.

Chartists were somewhat depressed because of the failure, thus far, of the carriers to confirm the move of the industrial and utility averages to highest marks of from 2 to 3 years.
